Personal El Pasoan Perspective!

Winton Homes is supportive of seeing natural areas conserved and the opportunity to be physically connected to our natural and cultural heritage. We can create opportunities for our local economies to grow by investing in land for outdoor recreation, for wildlife and water. Such investments have a ripple effect. In addition, investment in a nature-based park, such as Castner Range National Monument, can create more jobs and lead to more visitor spending. Locally, in 2006, the Hueco Tanks State Park brought in $582,207 in county sales and $331,774 in county residents’ personal income. In 2007 Hueco Tanks and Franklin Mountains State Park brought 72,644 visitors to El Paso County (Texas State Parks, Natural Economic Assets).

Castner Range

Volunteers attended and gave presentations at the annual BOR-DErize Youth Symposium. This year’s focus was on environmental issues affecting the border region. The goal was to inform and educate high school students from our area (El Paso, Las Cruces and Ciudad Juarez) so they can actively participate in solving community problems. The students worked with various experts, including a five-person Castner Range team, which offered information designed to facilitate solutions for the problems the students identified.
